

Information for people attending Development Control Committee on 20 December 2017

Hertfordshire County Council's Development Control Committee will be meeting on Wednesday 20 December to consider an application by Veolia Environmental Services Ltd to build a recycling and energy recovery facility at Rye House, Ratty's Lane in Hoddesdon.

The meeting will be held in the Council Chamber and is scheduled to start at 10am; it is likely to last all day.

The meeting is expected to be well attended and parking may be difficult. Seating in the Chamber will be allocated to notified speakers and thereafter on a first come first served basis to the safe capacity of the room; it may not, therefore, be possible for all members of the public to have access the meeting room. There will be an audio link in the Committee Rooms, but there is no video link to the Council Chamber.

Please note that there are no public restaurant facilities on site.
